Chicago History Book Discussion Group – The Third Coast

The Third Coast: When Chicago Built the American Dream

By Thomas Dyja

Saturday, June 12, 10 a.m.

Via Zoom

Edgewater Branch hours:
Mon & Wed 10-5; Tues & Thurs 12-7
Fri & Sat 9-4; Sun 1-5

In addition to being one of the Great Migration cities, Chicago was also known as a center for transportation, architecture, financial markets, and innovation. Celebrated for its unique literary character, but also reviled for failing to protect its vulnerable citizens, and a tendency towards corruption, the city has always been a mix of high and low.

Join us for a discussion on the city's influence on U.S. history by reading Thomas Dyja's The Third Coast: When Chicago Built the American Dream. This title will be available at the Circulation Desk or can be sent to other branches for pick-up. This program is a partnership with the Chicago Public Library.
